

Loudoun Education Foundation Multicultural Grant Instructions January 2019

Program Goal: To assist Loudoun County Public Schools implement programs on multicultural education, targeted primarily towards students, to help them better understand and embrace diversity in Loudoun County. In addition, programs may also involve parent, teacher, or community educational activities if they are associated with student programming.

Eligibility

The Loudoun Education Foundation is pleased to announce its grant opportunities available to all Loudoun County public schools.

- This grant is for programs and projects to be implemented during the 2019-2020 school year.
- Applications must be reviewed and signed by the school's principal.

Grants Available

There is no minimum limit.

$500 is the maximum grant available for a single or multi-class project.

$1,500 is the maximum grant available for a school-wide project.

$2,500 is the maximum grant available for a cluster-wide project.

Award Criteria

Primary consideration will be given to the following applications:

- Programs shall provide multi-cultural educational information, or shall undertake direct outreach and interchange between diverse ethnic and faith groups.
- Programs shall be of appropriate complexity and structure for the target audience, be they elementary, middle, or high school students.
- Programs shall focus on Loudoun County.
- The programs shall seek to extend or expand existing activities, not simply repeat existing Loudoun County programming in current venues. .
- Programs may occur during school or after school, and principally be held in LCPS facilities.
- Programs may involve LCPS teachers, administrators, parents, university faculty and other outside instructors, or community representatives as presenters
- Budget must be suitable to project; the program can be accomplished for the requested funding amount.

Some program examples include:

- A high school social science course may hold an afterschool symposium on the experiences of different cultures and faiths in America or in Loudoun County. This may involve professors from George Mason University as instructors, local community representatives, or could be led by high school instructors.

- An elementary school may hold an in-school multicultural fair - including music, food, and dress from different cultures - tied to relevant education programming undertaken by classroom teachers.
- A middle school may hold an in-service training for its teachers and administrators on diversity in the school and community, engaging independent trainers to deliver the program.
- A school may provide a stipend for instructor(s) or administrator(s) to attend “Courageous Conversations” training workshops, and develop and implement an action plan for utilizing the program in the school.
- A high school may create a literary magazine celebrating the different cultures involved in their school.
